

Royston Williams

Director Nominee Statement

For those of you who do not know me I am commonly referred to as the loud one from the East Midlands but for the benefit of you all my Sunday name is Royston Williams, but Stone will do as my preferred go to name.

I came to live in Leicester, from Birmingham, in 1994 where I was introduced to Pétanque by one of the East Midlands stalwarts, Ted Lloyd. I am currently President of my region and Leicestershire Pétanque and have had the honour of playing Nationally and Internationally. My proudest achievements are representing England for 6 consecutive years at the Home Nations and winning the Champion of Champions Doubles in 2010.

As part of the Board, I would work to ensure fairness, equity and above all transparency in decision making for the benefit of the membership. I have always prided myself in encouraging players to improve themselves and have the belief that they too can achieve. As a Director I will endeavour to put the membership at the heart of everything I do and be available for constructive dialogue in order to progress the sport that we all love.
